

FRENCH POLYNESIA

Posted on June 10, 2021 by Naeem Noor

French Polynesia is a country in Australia/Oceania. The people of French Polynesia are called French Polynesians. The country is situated in Oceania, with five archipelagoes (Archipel Des Tuamotu, Iles Gambier, Iles Marquises, Iles Tubuai, Society Islands) in the South Pacific Ocean about halfway between South America and Australia.

Etymology discusses where a term is considered to have originated from and how its meaning has changed over time. Etymology has been a factor in the naming of countries all across the world, and French Polynesia has also been influenced. The etymology of French Polynesia can be defined as; Borrowed from French polynésie, coined by Charles de Brosses in 1756, from Ancient Greek πολύς (polús, "many") + νῆσος (nêsos, "island").

An ethnicity is a group or sub-group of people who are connected based on common characteristics which may include religion, origin, language, traditions, or culture. The ethnic groups in French Polynesia include unmixed Polynesians, Demis, Europeans, and East Asians.

Air Tahiti Nui is the national airline of French Polynesia. The national colors of the country are red and white. The emoji flag of the country is ????????, and the ISO code is PYF.

French Polynesia is known for its stunning beaches and resorts. The national dish of French Polynesia is Poisson cru. Tahiti Drink, in addition to being a traditional beverage, is one of the country's national drinks. The national instrument of French Polynesia is Kettledrums.

The country has the time zone UTC-10:00UTC-09:30 (Marquesas Islands) UTC-09:00 (Gambier Islands) followed by dd/mm/yyyy as the standard date format.

French Polynesia is divided into 5 administrative subdivisions. Fa'a'a is French Polynesia's largest city, while Papeete serves as the capital.

The literacy rate in French Polynesia is 98%.

The country's total area is 4,167 km² (1,609 sq mi), and the total population is 280,904. The country's average elevation is 1,121 m (3,675 ft), whereas the country's terrain can be defined as; Mixture of rugged high islands and low islands with reefs. The country's usual climate is tropical, but moderate.

The area of land next to a sea is called the coast, and a coastline is defined as the line where land and sea meet. French Polynesia has 2,525 km of coastline.

The CFP franc serves as the national unit of currency. The domain for French Polynesia is .pf and the country code is +689.

9 March is designated as National Day. In French Polynesia, the majority of the population practices Maohi Protestantism as their religion.

Nature is a blessing from God and we must protect it because it provides us with the oxygen and food to survive. It also helps to keep our environment beautiful and clean. To emphasize the significance of nature, French Polynesia has selected a few forces of nature as national symbols. French Polynesia's national bird is the Albatross, while its national animal is the Sea turtle. The national flower is Gardenia Taitensis. The national tree of French Polynesia is the Coconut tree, and the highest peak is Mont Orohena.

Sports have always played an important role in developing the social and cultural structure of French Polynesia and other countries. When it comes to designating a sport as the official symbol, Football is considered the country's national sport.

The country's national anthem was written and composed by Maeva Bougues, Irmine Tehei, Angèle Terorotua, Johanna Nouveau, Patrick Amar, Louis Mamatui, Jean-Pierre, and Célestin.

Mausoleums are buildings dedicated to holding someone's remains. It serves as a reminder of the nation's revolutionary fighters who sacrificed their lives for the country. Mausoleums are one of the most significant historical landmarks. The national mausoleum of French Polynesia.

Numerous organizations are working on a global level to improve the current state of affairs and to collaborate in order to establish and maintain constructive partnerships. French Polynesia is a member of the Pacific Community \(PC\). French Polynesia collaborates with them to organize, analyze, and address various events and situations.

"Tahiti Nui Mare'are'a" is the official motto of the country, and Edouard Fritch is the current President of French Polynesia.

French Polynesia has declared French as the country's official language.

- Learn about French Polynesia flag color codes and their meanings -

- Further information regarding the symbols and knowledge of French Polynesia can be found in the table of contents -

